Craig Knudsen Presents Discover Yamaha – A Piano Workshop

PENSACOLA, FL, October 31, 2016: Craig Knudsen, one of the top innovators in music technology, is holding a free Yamaha Piano workshop at Blues Angel Music on Friday, November 4th at 7:00 PM. During the workshop, titled Discover Yamaha, Craig will demonstrate many of the features of Yamaha's Disklavier and Clavinova systems.

Disklavier is Yamaha Pianos' reproducing piano system.; their interpretation of the player piano. The system is available as an option on many of Yamaha's acoustic pianos, but it can also be added to pianos from many other makers including Bösendorfer.

Clavinova is Yamaha pianos' most advanced digital piano line. In addition to their reproduction of the touch, response, and tone of an acoustic grand piano, the Clavinova incorporates a lot of technology making learning to play and enjoy the piano easier than ever before.

About Craig Knudsen

Craig Knudsen is known as the "Technology Guy" from the YouTube videos ThePianoGuys. He worked for the Wurlitzer Company while attending college. After he graduated from the Harvard Business School, he began working for Yamaha. Knudsen focused on utilizing software to make learning to play the piano easier and more accessible to the masses. He designed Yamaha Pianos' Follow Light, Cue TIME, Kooky Karaoke, StarLIGHTS and SmartKEY software.
