

Economics column by Phyllis K. Pooley

Closing "digital divide" can help raise living standards

Pensacola, Fla. – Sept. 28, 2016 – In a new column, Phyllis K. Pooley, director of special projects at the University of West Florida Office of Economic Development and Engagement, measures the “digital divide,” the percentage of households with and without computers and internet access, in the Pensacola area and throughout the country. Pooley’s article can be accessed through the UWF Center for Research and Economic Opportunity website.
