

IMS To Receive EntreCon's 2017 Best Medium Business of the Year Award

EntreCon, an annual business and leadership development conference hosted by the Studer Community Institute, recently selected IMS ExpertServices as the 2017 Best Medium Business of the Year. This award recognizes the achievements and economic impact entrepreneurs and businesses have on our community and is awarded to a business, with 50 or more employees, that has shown resilience and fortitude in overcoming obstacles and adversities to ensure the stability of the organization and growing success. IMS will receive the award on November 15th, during EntreCon's annual two-day business conference in Pensacola, FL.

This exciting announcement comes at an opportune time for IMS as the Pensacola-based business is celebrating its 25th year as a preeminent provider of expert services. While the company initially focused on delivering interim executive talent for telecommunications companies, when requests for unique expertise began to emerge from Fortune 500 clients involved in high-stakes litigation, founders Mike Wein, Bill Wein and Ted Gorder saw an opportunity to shift the business and expand its horizons to provide top-notch expert delivery services to litigators nationwide on a wide array of high-stakes cases. Since its inception in 1992, IMS has remained an entrepreneurial spirit and voice in the community, always willing to share lessons learned in launching and growing its business and always striving to engage and support the community in which it lives, works and plays.

Founder Bill Wein shared: "The entire IMS team thanks the EntreCon judges for this honor and recognition. Our culture of servant leadership and service excellence, both within IMS and within our community drives us as we work to strengthen and improve the quality of life for our teams, clients, experts, and neighbors."

The founders and staff at IMS ExpertServices are humbled and honored to be selected for this award and are excited to be a part of the Nov. 15th event. The EntreCon conference and awards ceremony will provide yet another opportunity to place a spotlight on our community of leaders and emerging companies as they come together, exchange ideas and grow as a community.
