JC Findley comes from a military background and his love of that background shows in his work. He brings a creative touch to his photographs of planes and ships, along with his beach and nature photographs. Always looking for a new way to present a familiar subject, his work, sometimes presented on metal, makes digital photography a new art form.

Julie Morrison has found her love in painting light, water and the beach. Her paintings are large and most capture a wave, either as it just begins to break, or just as it begins to fall over itself. Her attention to detail is not lost in her painterly approach.
