From an intro watercolor class in the 80's, Scott Melville's painting style has developed into beautifully detailed egg tempera works of art. Scott captures a variety of subject matter with great expertise. Coming from a fine art and design background, Linda Devins brings that experience into her beautiful dolls. Featured in several national publications, her dolls are truly "works of art" and definitely one of a kind. Teaching inspires learning and Manuel Rivas spent almost 10 years sharing his passion for photography with young people. His enthusiasm for his work is evident in his Pensacola Beach and National Seashore photos. Sue Elwell, working in bright colors, with a touch of yellow brick road fantasy, is comfortable in both acrylics and pastels. Laura Wolfersperger is an experimental mixed media artist working in encaustics. A technique Laura uses involving beeswax, damar resin, and adding color pigments to create a ethereal feeling of depth and mystery.
