Turner joins Ideaworks as director of technology

PENSACOLA, Fla. (July 26, 2016) — Josh Turner has joined Pensacola-based marketing agency Ideaworks as their director of technology.

Turner, a native of Milton, Florida, is an expert developer with more than eight years' experience in all aspects of software architecture, design and development. He takes applications from concept to engineering, with a focus on enterprise-level software tailor-made to solve some of today's most pressing business problems.

In his new position, Turner will oversee Ideaworks' division of technology — developing custom applications and websites for clients in a wide range of industries.
