Tracy Carlton Named Director of Organizational Effectiveness and Education at West Florida Healthcare

July 28, 2016 (Pensacola, FL) – Tracy M. Carlton, MHA, has been named Director of Organizational Effectiveness and Education for West Florida Healthcare. In her new role, Carlton will be responsible for integrating training with organizational and career development to enhance individual, group and organizational effectiveness.

After completing her undergraduate degree in Psychology from National University in San Diego, California, Carlton earned a Master's of Health Administration degree from the University of Phoenix. In addition, she is certified to deliver Hogan Assessments and has completed a number of development and leadership courses, including the LEAN Six Sigma Course.

Carlton comes to West Florida Healthcare with three years of leadership development experience with another local health care facility where she utilized her knowledge and training to help guide that organization's overall culture. An eight-year veteran of the U.S. Navy, Carlton also has also worked with the Veteran's Administration Medical Center in San Diego, California, as well as in Japan for the U.S. Department of Defense.

Originally from St. Louis, Missouri, Carlton is a member of the Association for Talent Development and the American College of Healthcare Executives.
