Hayward calls special meeting to finalize project

Pensacola Mayor Ashton Hayward is calling a special meeting of City Council on September 22 (pending the availability of council members) to conclude the administrative elements that are necessary to begin construction on the VT MAE hangar at the Pensacola International Airport.

The final grant from the Florida Department of Transportation was signed today. This leaves a few project administrative elements that must be approved by City Council, to include:

1. The lease agreement with VT MAE has to be amended to conform the lease to the project.
2. The guaranteed maximum price has to be included in the construction managers contract.

"Finalization of this project is a team effort in which we need to work together to cross the goal line," said Hayward. A date for the construction groundbreaking will be set after City Council has acted on the items.
